The Crusader

2001-2002

“The Journey Never Ends”

Dr. Larry Kennedy has served as our President since 1998.

President Kennedy takes time to meet the editor of the Crusader Yearbook, Mitchell Smith, (above) and jokes with Amy Holifield (left).

William Carey College

Office of the President

Yearbooks always make you reflect on the year that has passed. What things did we accomplish? How have we changed? It's an opportunity to think about where we've been and a time to set goals for the year to come.

Hopefully, you can see your own progress as a student. At William Carey College, you have the chance to strengthen your ideas, to build relationships and a firm foundation for your future. Everywhere I go, alumni tell me how much their college experience at Carey meant to them. I hope that you, too, are making memories you will never forget.

As an institution, we are working toward improving our facilities. In the last few years, we have remodeled and improved existing buildings. This academic year, of course, marked the construction of a new nursing facility, the first since 1974. It won't be the last.

However, just as a house doesn't make a home, buildings don't make a college. There's much more to it than that, as I'm sure you've already discovered. You get out of college what you put into it, and our faculty, staff, and students all work hard to create an atmosphere of excellence. Our debate and forensics team regularly ranks in the top five college programs in the country, our theatre program receives national accolades, as well. Carey students have a 100 percent placement rate for getting into medical school, and all the nurses in the 2001 classes passed the nursing licensure exam. In addition, Carey has had 21 Rotary Scholars in the last 24 years. All of those accomplishments say a lot about the kind of education offered at William Carey College.

So, as you look back over this academic year, reflect with pride. You're part of something great, and we're proud to have you here. Together we can make a difference in this world as we strive to fulfill our motto: "Expect great things from God; attempt great things for God."

My hope for you as you turn these pages is that you'll look for God's hand in your past and give Him the power for your future.

God bless you,

Larry Kennedy
President

"Expect great things from God; attempt great things for God."

498 Tuscan Avenue • Hattiesburg, Mississippi 39401-5461 • (601) 582-6495

The 2001-2002 school year proved to be a year full of memories. Freshman remember how they felt when they first came to the campus. New friendships were forged. Some enemies were made. Some couples even became engaged. Classes were passed and classes were failed. We all remember where we were on September 11 when we first heard the news. This year has truly been filled with many memories, good and bad.

The theme of The Crusader this year is "The Journey Never Ends." This theme is worked into the different sections of this publication, but that theme is also worked into the aspects of our lives. For entering freshman, the journey does not end after their first year it continues throughout the college years. For graduating seniors, it closes another chapter in the book of that persons journey through life.

The journey does not end. It continues through the years of our lives. Each day adds its own page. Sometimes the journey is rough. At times the yearbook staff thought this publication would never end, but it did. We are proud of the work we have done to produce a yearbook for William Carey College and its faculty, staff, and students.

This publication is the first step in improving the yearbooks at William Carey College. We are excited about the changes that are taking place, and we look forward to the 2002-2003 yearbook. In closing we would like to thank the administration, faculty, staff, and students of William Carey College for their support. Also, we want to thank all those who purchased ads and gave extra effort to complete this publication. Thank you.

God Bless You,
Mitchell Smith, editor

Tatum Court, constructed in 1914, is the oldest building on campus. It still stands as the center of the Hattiesburg campus today.

The Johnson Hall Apartments offers small, private apartment style living for the junior and senior girls living on the Hattiesburg campus.

With Johnson Hall in the background, the Pearl B. McKinnon and Gertrude B. Smith Memorial Garden gives Hattiesburg students a place to sit and study or just watch the fish.

A journey through the Hattiesburg Campus

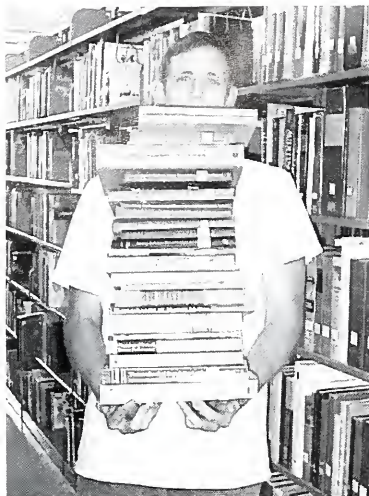

Formerly a boys' dorm, Lawrence Hall (right) now houses the Cooper School of Missions, among other offices and organizations.

The Missions Plaza (above) was built in honor of those William Carey students and alumni who have gone out on the mission field.

The Baptist Student Union House (right) offers students a place to relax and take a break from classes.

William Carey College on the Coast

The Fairchild Administration Building is definitely a necessity. It is the home of the Business Office, teachers' offices, and special board rooms for college meetings.

Students on the coast campus enjoy the privilege of living in apartments, rather than the familiar dorms of most other schools.

Parker Hall contains the Sarah Gillespie Gallery, classrooms, and a 150-seat auditorium.

Sunshine and beaches on the Coast

LRC/McMullin houses classrooms on the top floor, and a library on the bottom.

The Art Buildings allow for sculpting, painting, etc.

JC shares a smile before going back into the game for the Lady Crusaders soccer team.

William Carey students on the coast enjoy a friendly, easy-going atmosphere.

The guys are hungry for some food after a hard day of classes.

Lindsay, Donnette, Melinda, and Katrina stop to take a quick picture on the steps.

Dr. Ehde talks with Pam Sullivan about astronomy.

Eli and Lindsay demonstrate how to "Hula" at the SGA luau.

Coast students prepare for one of the regular SGA sponsored bonfires.

SEPTEMBER 11, 2001

“a new day of infamy” as it has been called, will forever be etched in our memory. None of us will ever forget where we were when we first heard about it, nor will we ever forget how our hearts ached as we saw these images for the first time. The attacks gave new meaning to the phrase “united we stand.” It was a day that shattered America, but it was a day that brought us together as a nation.

9:43am: The Pentagon is shattered as American Airlines Flight 77 slammed into the building.

9:03am: The impact of United Airlines Flight 175 striking the South Tower of the World Trade Center.

10:00am: United Airlines Flight 93 crashes in Shanksville, PA after several passengers may have tried to overpower the hijackers.

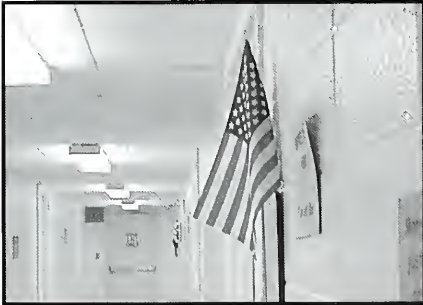

Three firefighters take a moment to raise the American flag amid all the rubble at the World Trade Center.

Carey students show their support by displaying flags in windows and outside their dorm rooms.

"A great people has been moved to defend our nation. Terrorist attacks can shake the foundations of our biggest buildings, but they cannot touch the foundation of America. These acts shattered steel, but they cannot dent the steel of American resolve."

--George W. Bush

President Bush receives word of another plane striking the Twin Towers.

In Remembrance

When disaster first hit the airwaves on September 11, students, faculty and staff at William Carey College, Hattiesburg, MS went into overdrive. Already, groups had gathered all over the campus to plan a course of action that would positively affect not only the students, but the general public as well. Shortly after the tragedy Obra Quave, director of theatre at WCC; Shannon Robert associate professor of theatre and scenic designer, and Tim Matheny, instructor of theatre, planned a program to benefit the American Red Cross. Entitled "September 11: In Remembrance" with a cast of students and faculty, the program was presented for the Hattiesburg community in the evening, then for the Carey community twice on the following morning. Although admission was free, a request for donations netted nearly $1000.

"So many people say 'I feel so helpless.' We decided let's not be helpless. Let's do something," said Quave. The program offered people a chance to do something.

The program included a selection of readings taken from the Holy Bible, website postings of lost friends and relatives of the World Trade Center and Pentagon disasters, national news services, condolence letters from foreign dignitaries, and personal sentiments from the cast. Interpretative movement and music were also included.

The set was painted black with the names of over 300 victims printed in white chalk. Special note was made that over 5400 names of the missing were not included. Audience members joined in the singing of "God Bless America" and were asked to leave the program in silence to honor the victims of the tragedy. Photographs depicting the disaster sites and mourning scenes throughout the world lined the theatre lobby. By participating in this program, theatre students and faculty were able to put their emotions and talents to use in a constructive endeavor that helped themselves and others deal with the shock and anger of this American tragedy.

Story compiled from reports by Robyn Jackson of the Hattiesburg American and Jeanna Graves Photos by Jeanna Graves, Administrative Assistant for Communications and Public Relations, William Carey College, Hattiesburg, Mississippi.

Miss Carey 2002
